The Assessment List

The Assessment List is a concise list of licensed doctoral-level psychologists in Los Angeles county who administer and interpret psychological testing. The list currently includes about 300 psychologists offering assessment of all types: psychological, psychoeducational, neuropsychological, vocational, forensic, and general psychiatric assessment. The list is available via download from the internet. The directory is edited by a licensed psychologist with experience in psychodiagnostic assessment. For easy reference, the list is cross-indexed by type of testing, ages seen, city, and psychologist name.

Permission to Copy

Permission is granted to the reader to copy and distribute this directory as long as the editor's contact information is not removed. This directory is available via mail or via download from the internet. We have received 6,000 visits to The Assessment List since first posted on the internet. There is never a cost to professionals or prospective clients for this directory. As a courtesy when contacting professionals, please let them know where you learned about their services.

Participation

Licensed psychologists anywhere in Los Angeles county who perform psychological testing may list their services in this directory. Submit via e-mail or on letterhead a list of up to 8 referral questions you address and the age range of patients you will see, along with your full name, degrees, license number, e-mail address, office address, & office phone number. Services provided by pre-licensed individuals must be listed under their licensed supervisor's name and license number. Direct any submissions, inquiries, or corrections to and request updates of this directory from the editor. An application form is included in the back of this directory. There is no charge for participation; this is a community service.

Advertising

Premium advertising is available to psychologists through this directory. (1) We can mail out your own pre-printed practice brochure, business card, announcement, or other special advertising to our readers, collated together with the printed edition of the directory. (2) We can produce mailing labels for you to customize your own professional mailings. (3) Your camera-ready display ad, from business-card size up to a full page, can be placed in either the printed edition or the internet edition of this directory. Call for details including submission deadlines, circulation statistics, and pricing.

Circulation

To promote the services of psychologists in Los Angeles county, we distribute the directory in several ways.

Firstly, we distribute each edition of the directory by e-mail to approximately 7,000 mental health professionals. Secondly, the directory is distributed in print in small batches of about 50 at a time to mental health professionals and to other professionals, such as physicians, schools, and others who are likely to use the resource to make referrals. Over the years, hundreds of copies of the directory have been distributed in print. We provide the directory at periodic networking events, where typically 20-40 clinicians attend. We provide paper copies of the directory at professional educational conferences, as well.

Additionally, because of our visibility in the community we receive frequent inquiries from colleagues and prospective clients and will refer them to the directory. We also monitor professional e-mail discussion groups and respond to postings requesting information about psychological assessment services. Lastly, both professionals and prospective clients can download the directory from the internet at JJDeSantis.com.

History of The Assessment List

The Assessment List began out of a need I recognized in my own practice. I recognize the value of psychological testing and will refer my patients for testing when it would be helpful and appropriate.

The process of making a referral to the right specialist, however, can be a cumbersome task. Prospective clients can find it quite difficult to locate an appropriate assessor. It is equally hard for clinicians to find and refer out to a well-selected assessor. It is just as hard for assessors to advertise adequately to their prospective referrers, clients, and colleagues. Typically for a clinician to find a psychologist who offers a specific type of testing, they must place several phone calls or send several e-mails out to colleagues in the community, wait and collect the replies--most of which are suggestions for whom to call next--then make a second or third round of additional inquiries to the suggested leads before finding those professionals offering the right type of service. This is time-consuming, redundant, and random.

I have done a lot of reading on business and marketing, given workshops to therapists in my office periodically on the subject of marketing a practice, and have had colleagues consult me for marketing coaching, so it occurred to me that if I need this information, then others might as well. I had just had a very successful experience developing a similar directory for therapists that offer group psychotherapy.

So in 2006, I began to more formally publish a directory of licensed doctoral-level psychologists who offer psychological testing of all types anywhere in Los Angeles county. A directory is necessary because one cannot usually find psychologists who specifically offer testing in the yellow pages or even through local professional associations or the internet.

Keeping a list current, unlike other types of directories, requires frequent updating of the information. Updates are published about annually--when the number of changes is sufficiently large to warrant a new edition.

Assembling such a list requires time and effort. I've been asked why I do this; what's "in it" for me. Building a private practice requires a lot of time and effort. Marketing a practice involves creating professional visibility for oneself. Offering a valuable resource to the community is just a method of "enlightened self-interest." Mark Twain said, "Always do right; it will gratify some and amaze the rest." If I didn't spend my marketing time this way, I would put my time into some other outreach vehicle. Some people go to a lot of "lunch" with their colleagues. Some people volunteer with the Red Cross. This project is a part of what I do.

This directory is offered without charge. If a fee were involved, then this fee would automatically create a barrier to the directory being truly comprehensive. Some would pay, others would decline to participate. Since The Assessment List has no such barrier, no one has a reason not to list their services. Hence The Assessment List can be inclusive and therefore totally comprehensive. This inclusiveness and comprehensiveness creates a powerful advantage as a community resource.

So I began to seriously build the list, contacted everyone I knew or heard about that offered testing services, and reviewed various other directories. A few sets of broadcast e-mail, letters, phone calls, and post card mailings augmented the search. The response was almost uniformly positive. Every time I hear of a colleague who might be offering testing, I investigate. I don't let psychologists add to the list through an automated system, because too many tend to ignore instructions, omit important information, or try to get in when they don't offer this specific service.

I place a disclaimer in the directory that clarifies that I do not verify credentials, but I do try to have a license number listed for everyone. Prelicensed people must advertise under the name and license of their supervisor. I think credentialing is a problematic task, fraught with liability issues, so this is outside the purview of the list.

Los Angeles county has about 5,000 licensed psychologists in it. This is a manageable catchment area. Anything bigger would have to be a venture that would require time and monetary outlay akin to some of the other paid internet directories. My passion is doing clinical work; this directory is just a means to assist that end. I also publish other directories for the local area--therapists who offer group therapy and child psychiatrists--and am involved with directories of clinicians specific to my own practice areas of Glendale & Glendora. Each of these is designed to reach other marketing segments and optimal referrers.

My intent is to circulate The Assessment List to the community as widely as possible for purposes of effective cross-referral. The list is mailed out in small batches periodically to the professional mental health community.

I hope this latest edition of The Assessment List will be of value to you.
